Personal recommendation and repeat business are the cornerstones of the Company's success with many families moving up over the years from one Jones home to the next.

The abilities of an enthusiastic and committed sales team play a major part in this process by guiding purchasers through the buying process, whilst listening to their needs. This valuable flow of information is relayed back to the Company's marketing department and design team to ensure that a new Jones home fully meets customer expectations.

Jones homebuyers can also rely on a friendly, helpful customer care department which provides a comprehensive after-sales service.
